

Security has become a daily necessity for doing business in London, the UK and many parts of the world; your company or retail outlet may need security for events, meetings, executive protection, personal escort, general building security, or any other reason. When working with Ronin Security Services, you can be confident that we will protect your office, retail outlet, and employees.

Great corporate security begins with analyzing and being aware of the threats that can impact your company; at Ronin Security Services, we take an intelligence-led approach to corporate security. We continually gather intelligence about events, entities, and circumstances in and around your business; we then use the information to tailor and adapt our services to the needs and requirements of your business.

Ronin Security Services specializes in office building security, retail security, executive protection, and in-building security. Our services are available as embedded programs or on-demand services, and they are designed to enhance security, productivity, and the continuity of your business. Our guards are highly trained, SIA compliant, and well equipped; they are very versatile and adaptable, allowing them to fit into any setting comfortably.

Our operations rely on proactive intelligence and are focused on threat avoidance and mitigation. Though our guards are always alert, ensuring danger is avoided, at all costs; our approach to corporate security is thoughtful, proactive, and low profile because we want to ensure that no one feels intimidated.